

NPort Express allows commercially available software application (BARman communication software) to communicate with devices (BARman interfaces) over the Ethernet network as if they were directly connected to the PC's communication Ports.

